

Social Contract for Team 2

Meeting Rules:

1. Being late 3+ times results in a mention during sprint review
2. Meetings should start at the agreed time if more than half the team is present
3. Missing 2 meetings results in a mention during sprint review
4. Members should tell in advance if they can't come to a meeting or if they might be late, failing to do so will be seen as a communication problem. 2 offences result in a mention during the sprint review
5. Scrum Master aims to keep the meetings on track
6. Establish meeting agenda prior to meetings
7. Record unproductive meetings and their causes

Work Process Rules:

1. Difficulties with user stories must be shared with the rest of the team, failing to do so will be seen as a communication problem. 2 offences result in a discussion and vote to decide whether to bring this up during the sprint review
2. Failing to complete user stories will result in a mention during sprint review
3. Team members are required to follow the process (refer to Work Process) frequently failing to do so will lead to discussion within the team, if necessary a mention during a sprint review

Unspoken (general) rules:

1. Commitment: Team members individually commit to achieving their team goals, each and every sprint.
2. Courage: Team members know they have the courage to work through conflict and challenges together so that they can do the right thing.
3. Focus: Team members focus exclusively on their team goals and the sprint backlog; there should be no work done other than through their backlog.
4. Openness: Team members and their stakeholders agree to be transparent about their work and any challenges they face.
5. Respect: Team members respect each other to be technically capable and to work with good intent.
6. Repercussions: By failing to do so, the work process will be compromised and this should result in a discussion amongst the team members. If the team agrees that the problem is severe enough a vote will be held to see whether or not to bring this up with the product owners.

The rules are agreed upon by the following team members:
